DISTRICT SHEIKHUPURA

District Police Officer
Sheikhupura

INTRODUCTION

History of Sheikhpura goes back to 100 B.C. Historical research revealed the fact that Sangla or Sakala was once capital of the Punjab. Alexander the great from Macedonia (locally known as Sikander-e-Azam) fought one of the most horrible battles of his life. Name of the city was firstly written on the pages of “Tuzk-e-Jahangiri” as “Jahangirpura”, after the name of Prince Salim Noor-ud-Din Muhammad Jahangir. Mughal Emperor, Noor-ud-Din Muhammad Jahangir laid down foundation stone of historical Qila Sheikhpura in year 1607. Father of Jahangir, Emperor Jalal-Ul-Din Muhammad Akbar used to call him “Sheikhu” (a nick name). During Sikh rule, new city was named Singhpuria, previously known as Jahangirabad. During the reign of Emperor Jhanagir (1605 to 1672), Sheikhpura had the status of Royal hunting ground. In “Tuzke-Jahangiri”, Jahangir also wrote during the events in 1607 as under:-

“One day of Tuesday, I reside in Jahangirpura, my hunting ground. According to my order, a Minar and a grave for my deer called as “Mansraj”, was constructed here.”

Mughal Emperor Jahangir granted the estate of Sheikhpura to Syed Usman, father of Shah Bilal, a religious preceptor of the line of Qadiriyyah. Over the whole district, period between decline of the Mughal Empire after the death of Mughal Emperor Aurangzed and rise of the Sikh legacy was one of utter confusion and anarchy. The successive shocks of invasion from the Northwest and the devastation caused by the invading rulers like Nadir Shah. Nadir Shah and Ahmad Shah Abdali (1724-1773) almost ruined the prosperity of the tract. After the death of Aurangzeb, Muslim power was broken by the Sikhs who ruled through various small to medium sized groups. Nadir Shah and Ahmad Shah Abdali led raids that further weakened the local Muslims rule. Several raids were made by the Bhangi Sardars, a Sikh community. Finally, around 1780, Ranjit Singh, a Sikh ruler defeated the grandson of Ahmad Shah Abdali and later captured this district. The Sikhs were defeated by the British around 1850 and it stayed under British rule until independence in 1947.

In 1851, Sheikhpura Tehsil became part of Gujranwala District. The Municipal Secretary wrote a letter to the Chief Commissioner, Lahore for its inclusion in Lahore but it was never done. Later on, Sheikhpura was established as new district in year 1922.

Being satellite town of Lahore, Sheikhpura developed an industrial base. According to the Census of Manufacturing Industries in 1987-1988, the value-added generated in large-scale industries was higher than Lahore. The GRP of the city for the year 1993 was estimated as Rs. 6.260 million that constitutes about 32% of the district’s GRP. The industrial sector contributes 68% of the GRP and 45% of the total employment.

Sheikhupura is bounded by 06 other districts of the Punjab namely, Lahore, Nankana Sahib, Narowal, Hafizabad, Sialkot and Gujranwala. To the East, the international boarder of India connecting District Amritsar. The district has extreme climate and the summer season starts from April and continues till October. During the summer season, temperature ranges from 30 to 48 degree Celsius. The winter season starts from November and continues till March. December and January are the coldest months with a mean minimum temperature of about 3-5 degrees Celsius. The dust storms occur occasionally during the hot season, during June, July and August. Rainy weather alternates with oppressive weather. The rainfall in 500 mm per annum. The mean minimum and maximum humidity during winter is 37% and 84% respectively.
